LIBRARY TIMES

A Letter from the Director:

Fall (My Favorite Time of Year)!

Dear Faculty, Staff, and Students,

Fall is almost upon us (even though as I write this the weatherman is predicting 100 degree + weather for San Diego!) While I look forward to an exciting prelude to the holiday season, I’d like to take this opportunity to reflect on the Library’s past achievements. Summer typically, at least, for most universities is a quiet downtime but not at National University! In fact, this summer has been very busy at the Library. First of all, we welcomed a new librarian, aptly named “Summer” Krstevska, as our new library liaison for SOBM. We began a new tradition of offering a Finals Cram Session at the Library and hope to expand to more campuses. We have hosted many student events and look forward to many more. Sadly, we will be saying goodbye to our first Library sponsored graduate research fellow, Sarah Mendez (SHHS), but anticipate expanding this program to include at least two new fellows, one for SOEC and one for SOBM! I know that fall will bring many more opportunities to provide exceptional learning experiences for our students as we partner with our faculty to achieve this goal.

Happy Fall!

The Latest in the Library

Check out how the Library is reaching users in fun and creative ways

Upcoming Events:

With the success of our last Finals Cram Session, we’re aiming to hold another one at the end of September. We’re also hoping to expand the cram session to include multiple campuses. Then, in October, we will be working with Dr. Tim Petit from SOBM to hold a large networking event on supply chain management. Keep an eye out for more information.

Interlibrary Loan:

Have you ever been doing research and come across a book or article that you need, but you can’t find it in our Library? No problem! We have a free service for anyone at NU called Interlibrary Loan that allows you to request these items (textbooks excluded), and we’ll acquire them for you from another library. Simply fill out the appropriate request form at http://nu.libguides.com/forms.

Faculty Collaboration:

We recently finished a collaborative project with Frank Montesoni to put together an extensive reading list of articles that will be used in ENG240. Are you looking to move away from textbook and/or incorporate more library materials into your course? We can help find relevant resources for assignments and assembly reading lists. Contact your library liaison to get started!

Library Sponsored Student Research Fellow: Update 2

We previously wrote about Sarah Mendez, our first Student Research Fellow who was brought on to support faculty research within the SHHS Center of Excellence. So, what has she been up to since our last update? Here’s what she had to say:

All of the tips and tricks I have learned about research and writing have me very confident that I will complete my capstone course with ease.

I’m very excited to be able to ‘pass the baton’ to the next group of fellows who get to participate in such a great experience at the Library.”

Around the University

Have you been to a First Week Jam? Every month, the Veteran Center sets up live music and offers free hot dogs at one of the campuses around San Diego. Representatives from Student Services and Library come out to join the fun, so you’ll almost always find us there giving away handouts, bags, and other freebies. It’s always a good time, so we hope to see you there!

We had a chance to collaborate recently with the amazing NU Student Nurses Association (NUSNA). They held a Career Day in the Library in July, offering up vendors and support services, mock interviews, resume reviews, professional headshots, and more! Check out photos from the event at http://nu.libguides.com/events/nusna-career2017.

NUSNA also worked with the San Diego Blood Bank to hold a blood drive in the Library’s parking lot. A big thank you to everyone who stopped by. NUSNA have got some more great activities planned for the holidays, so stay tuned!
